DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to the communication filed on June 12, 2001. Claims 1-4 are currently pending in this application.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. With respect to the information disclosure statements filed June 12, 2001 and August 27, 2003 that are entirely in Japanese, they have not been considered because no translation and/or statement of relevancy has been provided to the examiner. See 37 CFR 1.97 and 1.98 for IDS rules.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 4 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to the other claims in the alternative only and cannot depend from any other multiple dependent claim.. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claim has not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bellesfield et al (US 6, 498,982) (hereinafter referred to as Bellesfield).

Bellesfield discloses a travel planning system comprising an interface (Figs. 2 (14)) accessible to a map database (Fig. 2 (26)) having a monitor screen (Fig. 1 (18)) with an input means (Fig. 1 – an input means is inherent in a personal computer), said system having additional databases (Fig. 2 (30, 34)).

Language directed at the intended use or purpose in a system does not result in a structural or functional difference with respect to prior art and has been held not to serve as a limitation on the claim. See In re Schreiber, 44 USPQ2d 1429 (CAFC 1997).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bellesfield et al (US 6,498,982) (hereinafter referred to as Bellesfield) in view of DeLorme et al (US 5,848,373) (hereinafter referred to as DeLorme).

Bellesfield discloses the system of claim 1 and 2. However, Bellesfield does not disclose that ranks the data. However, DeLorme discloses a system which ranks the data (col. 54, lines 33-39).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate into the system of Bellesfield the system of DeLorme so that the user can be provided a computer aided map location system in which the user can fill in the screen to whatever level of selectivity the user requires.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

VacationSpot.com discloses online maps and driving directions..

JP02001195459 discloses an itinerary planning system.
